DART SOFTWARE DOWNLOAD

DART licensing and ordering

You can order the DART source code from this page. You must read and agree with the DART license agreement, then complete all of the fields in this online form. When you click "I agree. Show me the download instructions.", you will gain access to the instructions on how to download the software via subversion. Since the DART software is still an area of active research, we'd like to be able to contact people to inform them of any bugs or updates and we need to prove to our sponsors that this is an area that generates a lot of interest. PLEASE use a real email address when registering - I solemnly swear to protect your email address like it is my own!

The use of subversion will enable you to download bugfixes and any new features as they become available without losing any modifications you may have made to the code. Updates to DART will be released periodically and announcements will be sent to the email address you provide. If you'd like to be removed from the DART announcement list, please send Tim Hoar email to that regard: thoar 'at' ucar .dot. edu

You might want to ensure you have the svn command at your disposal before filling out this order form. There is a good online book that describes subversion at http://svnbook.red-bean.com/. For this purpose, you will only be using the subversion client software -- svn.
